Raymond J. Jirran, Ph.D.

This is ready March 6, two weeks out from the due date March 19. For the past two weeks, I have had a case of “Creeping Crud,” unable to concentrate for as long as an hour. This means I need to cut back and the best place to do that is with the thinkers of the Protestant Revolt/Catholic Reformation.

The theological problem for this Sunday is the existence of hell and limbo. The ecclesial church is soft-pedaling limbo. Limbo is a place of natural happiness reserved for those who never got the memo about Jesus of Nazareth. The problem with hell as a place of eternal damnation is how a loving God permits that. My personal answer turns on the Holy Spirit as my advocate saving me with unrequited grace.

Material above the solid line draws from material below the solid line. Those uninterested in scholarly and tangential details should stop reading here. If they do, however, they may miss some interesting material.

Readings

First Reading:	Exodus 17:3-7
Responsorial Psalm:	Psalm 95:1-2, 6-7, 8-9 (8)
Second Reading:	Romans 5:1-2, 5-8
Verse before the Gospel:	cf. John 4:42, 15
Gospel:	John 4:5-42

Rom 5:5

Joshua R. Brotherton, "Presuppositions of Balthasar's Universalist Hope and Maritain's Alternative Eschatological Proposal"²⁷

The key sentence in this article: "The principal problem concerning Maritain's proposal, according to some, is its apparent conflict with magisterial teaching regarding the everlasting character of hellfire." In other words, Church politics ought to determine what the Churches as true. He thinking of Hans Urs von Balthasar, particularly in the matter of racial relations, leaves me unimpressed.

cf. John 4:42, 15

John 4:5-42

John 4:1-42

Paul Crowley, S.J., "Mystagogy and Mission: The Challenge of Nonbelief and the Task of Theology"²⁸

Some key sentences indicating prioritizing Church politics over truth, wherever truth may be leading:

Benedict argues . . . reduce the task of theology to a circumscribed determination and interpretation of doctrine as proposed by the magisterium. This is far from the goal of a mystagogic [sic] and missionary theology I seek here—one what would bring the fides quae (faith content) and the fides qua (faith lived) together into a unified act of believing.

Again,

As Louis-Marie Chauvet reminds us . . . "You cannot arrive at the recognition of the risen Jesus unless you renounce seeking/touching/finding him my undeniable proofs. Faith begins precisely with such a renunciation of the immediacy of he see/know and with the assent to the mediation of the Church.”

Basically, Crowley skips over the relationship between politics and what is proclaimed as truth.

Lance Byron Richey, review of Bernadeta Jojko, Worshiping the Father in Spirit and Truth: An Exegetico-Theological Study of Jn 4:20-26 in the Light of the Relationships among the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit³⁰

Richey is unimpressed. Without saying so, Richey implies that Jojko lets exegetical Church politics override an independent assessment of the role of Spirit and Truth at the heart of John. The research, however, is otherwise impressive.

Azar concludes, “a welcome corrective to those traditions of spirituality that have indeed offered the cross something less than a principal and defining role.”

John 4:34

Neil Ormerod, “‘For in him the whole fullness of Deity dwells bodily’: The Trinitarian Depths of the Incarnation”³⁴

Ormerod lightly skips over the tension between politics and truth and he never gets to any inkling about human rights, for example human rights of Asians to share in the land masses of Australia, where Ormerod resides. This article is another great to-do about nothing relevant to life as lived in relationship to human rights, for example the right to know about the sexual cover-ups of the bishops, the trial of which is happening as this is written.

Responsorial Antiphon for this Sunday is If today you hear his voice, harden not your hearts (Psalm 95:8).⁵⁸ Between November 25, 2011 and November 25, 2012, Personal Notes systematically examined the illiterate 2011 Missal. For a more thorough examination of the illiterate 2011 Roman Missal, go to 1610 Missal: Thirty-fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time 121125.pdf/htm at <http://www.western-civilization.com/CBQ/Personal%20Notes/Personal%20Notes.htm>.

This is a call for grace that some Black Baptists bring to mind with This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you (John 15:12)⁵⁹

Due to greater responsiveness at the National Catholic Reporter blog, beginning with the Fourth Sunday in Lent, Reading 032B, March 15, 2015, my interest began shifting from annotating my index here, to engaging conversation there. I may keep up the Bibliography, but without further comment. Time will tell.

On Wednesday, December 28, 2016, I discovered that my web site, www.western-civilization.com was receiving 1000 hits per day, from the United States, most of which were for these readings. That complicates my priorities, priorities that require balancing between developing these Personal Notes, engaging writing on the National Catholic Reporter at <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today>, developing a Cleveland Organizing Branch of the Association for the Study of African American Life and History (ASALH), attending to my archival resources at the Western Reserve Historical Society, and preparing my 1972 dissertation, "Cleveland and the Negro following World War II" for publication at least on the web. I am the founding president of the Hampton Roads, from which the movie “Hidden Figures” arose, meaning that these priorities have potential consequences of note.

Raymond Arroyo, “The World Over,” on EWTN uses fear-mongering, rather than the Joy of the Gospel to entrance its viewers. In the past, Arroyo has responded to my concerns, particularly the Reverend Robert A. Sirico, who rarely appears anymore, with his drivel. Beginning, May 3, 2015, I intend to begin pointing out, here, the role fear, rather than joy, has in “The World Over.”

By July 31, I had identified a pattern of attack on Pope Francis by Arroyo. The attack is on what the Pope is preaching about climate change and capitalism. In the United States Republicans have firm opposition to such sermonizing, as the forthcoming as the Trump administration will show . . . or not.

As, on June 23, 2015, I prepared Reading 110B for the Seventeenth Sunday in Ordinary time for July 26, I decided to begin reading unread book reviews and articles from Theological Studies for two reasons. The first is I have already read every article cited in the Catholic Biblical Quarterly. The second is that traditionally Theological Studies articles have been more helpful to my prayer life. I also began reading unread book reviews in the Biblical Quarterly. When perusing the Reformation Commentary on Scripture, I sometimes call attention to what I underlined there. As of March 6, 2017 I stopped indexing the Reformation Commentary, because overwhelmed with health problems, indexing the Catholic Biblical Quarterly and Theological Studies according to the Sunday Lectionary, blogging in the context of events of the day and the Liturgy of the Word, Organizing Branches of the Association for the Study of African American Life and History, preparing my dissertation for publication, and, finally, preparing my Income Tax Return.
